

AUTHOR INDEX

A

- Adler, Jacob (see Kahn, Marcus, McDermott and Adler), 459.
 Arnold, Lloyd. Relationship between certain physico-chemical changes in the cornified layer and the endogenous bacterial flora of the skin, 207.

B

- Balog, Paul. Benign embolic pyemid, 107.
 Becker, S. William. Cutaneous melanoblasts as studied by the paraffin-dopa technique, 463.
 Beerman, Herman, and Severac, Marie. The problem of treatment-resistant syphilis. Further studies on a treatment-resistant strain of Spirochaeta pallida, 269.
 Blum, Harold F. Correspondence, 48.
 Boatner, C. H., and Efron, B. G. Studies with antigens. XII. Preparation and properties of concentrates of house dust allergen, 7.
 Boatner, C. H. (see Efron and Boatner), 49.
 Breazelle, Edward L. (see Pierce and Breazelle), 249.
 Bryan, William W. (see Cormia and Bryan), 15.

C

- Carleton, Alice. Correspondence, 105.
 Chiego, Bernard, and Silver, Henry. The effect of alkalis on the stability of keratins, 95.
 Conant, N. F., and Howell, Arden, Jr. The similarity of the fungi causing South American blastomycosis (paracoccidioides granuloma) and North American blastomycosis (Gilchrist's disease), 353.
 Cormia, Frank E., and Bryan, William W. Individual action and summation effects of x-radiation and commonly used dermatological preparations on the skin of the albino rabbit, 15.
 Cornbleet, Theodore (see Ewing and Cornbleet), 127.

D

- DeLamater, E. D. Experimental studies with the dermatophytes. IV. Influence of age upon allergic response in experimental ringworm in the guinea pig, 423.

- Delluva, Adelaide (see Fowle, Legault, Delluva and Georg).
 Deutsch, Felix, and Nadell, Raymond. Autonomic skin test with electrophoresis, 87.
 Dimond, N. S., and Thompson, K. W. The effect of sulfonamide drugs on trichophytons in vitro, 397.
 DiPalma, J. R. (see Milberg and DiPalma), 403.
 Dostrovsky, A., and Sagher, F. Experimentally induced disappearance and reappearance of lesions of hydrocystoma, 167.
 Draize, John H. The determination of the pH of the skin of man and common laboratory animals, 77.

E

- Efron, B. G. (see Boatner and Efron), 7.
 Efron, B. G., and Boatner, C. H. Studies with antigens. XIII. The significance of reactions to intracutaneous tests performed with solutions of purified extracts of ragweed pollens, 49.
 Epstein, Ervin. Untoward reactions to patch tests, 55.
 Epstein, Stephan. Correspondence, 47.
 Epstein, Stephan. Studies in abnormal sensitivity to light:
 I. Prurigo aestivalis, eczema solare and urticaria photogenica. Report of 17 cases and review of the literature, 187.
 II. Light sensitivity in prurigo aestivalis, Eczema solare and urticaria photogenica. Report of experiments, 225.
 III. Passive transfer of light sensitivity in prurigo aestivalis, 285.
 IV. Photoallergic concept of prurigo aestivalis, 289.
 Ewing, Paul L., and Cornbleet, Theodore. Determination of urinary coproporphrin I using commercial hematoporphyrin as a standard, 127.

F

- Fowle, L. P., Legault, R. R., Delluva, Adelaide, and Georg, Lucille. The Perspiration Test Patch. A Simple Clinical Method for the Determination of Insensible Perspiration from Small Areas of the Skin.
- Fox, Harry H. (see Smith, Goldman and Fox), 321.
- Frei, Wilhelm. Further studies in arspenamine hypersensitiveness in guinea pigs:
- III. Investigations on the chemical specificity of skin hypersensitiveness of guinea pigs to arspenamines, 29.
- IV. Vitamin A (carotene) in relation to the sensitization of guinea pigs to old arspenamine, 117.

G

- Georg, Lucille (see Fowle, Legault, Delluva and Georg).
- Goldman, Leon (see Smith, Goldman and Fox), 321.
- Gouley, Benjamin (see Urbach and Gouley), 331.
- Green, Mayer A. Tobacco skin reactions in peripheral vascular diseases and coronary artery disease, 179.
- Greenberg, Samuel I. Urinary excretion of nicotinic acid in various dermatoses, 139.

H

- Hamilton, James B. Male hormone stimulation is a prerequisite and incitant in common baldness, 473.
- Hitch, Joseph M. Experimental blastomycosis in mice, 41.
- Howell, A., Jr. (see Conant and Howell), 453.
- Hurwitt, Elliott. Dermatopathic lymphadenitis: Focal granulomatous lymphadenitis associated with chronic generalized skin disorders, 197.

J

- Jolliffe, Norman, Rosenblum, Louis A., and Sawhill, John. The effects of pyridoxine (vitamin B₆) on persistent adolescent acne, 143.

K

- Kahn, David, and Rothman, Stephen. Sweat response to acetylcholine, 431.
- Kahn, Reuben, Marcus, Stanley, McDermott, Elizabeth B., and Adler, Jacob. A serologic (nonsyphilitic) reaction approaching universal sensitivity, 459.
- Kalz, Frederick. Thiamine hydrochloride—an obligate wheal producing agent, 135.

L

- Legault, R. R. (see Fowle, Legault, Delluva and Georg).
- Lever, Walter F., and Talbott, John H. Electrolyte content of blister fluid in pemphigus, 303.

M

- McDermott, Elizabeth B. (see Kahn, Marcus, McDermott and Adler), 459.
- Marcus, Stanley (see Kahn, Marcus, McDermott and Adler), 459.
- Marshall, Wallace. Flap operation for treatment of multiple sebaceous cysts (steatomata), 299.
- Milberg, I. L., and DiPalma, J. R. The effects of certain vehicles and of salt solutions upon reactive hyperemia in the skin: application in a case of lichen ruber planus, 403.
- Moore, Morris. C. The virulence of strains of phialophora verrucosa determined by inoculating chorio-allantoic membranes of chick embryos, 411.

N

- Nadell, Raymond (see Deutsch and Nadell), 87.
- Nelson, Lawrence M. Experimental cutaneous reactions of American blastomycosis in the guinea pig, 257.

P

- Pariser, Harry. Studies of the transmissibility of syphilis. The rôle of the syphilitic woman as a passive carrier, 243. —
- Pierce, L. F., and Breazeale, Edward L. The removal of divalent cations from solution by beef heart antigens, 249.

- Pillsbury, Donald M., Shaffer, Bertram, and Nichols, Anna C. Bacterial flora of normal skin: a study of the effect of sulfathiazole and some ointment bases, 371.

R

- Rosenblum, Louis A. (see Jolliffe, Rosenblum and Sawhill), 143.
Rostenberg, Adolph, Jr. Correspondence, 205.
Rothman, Stephen. In vitro studies on pigmentation. I. The oxidation of tyrosine by ultraviolet irradiation. II. Influence of ascorbic acid on oxidation of tyrosine by ultraviolet irradiation, 61.
Rothman, Stephen (see Kahn and Rothman), 431.
Rothman, Stephen and Rubin, Jack. Sunburn and para-aminobenzoic acid, 445.
Rubin, Jack (see Rothman and Rubin), 445.

S

- Sagher, F. (see Dostrovsky and Sagher), 167.
Sawhill, John (see Jolliffe, Rosenblum and Sawhill), 143.
Schamberg, Ira L. (see Wile and Schamberg), 173.
Schwartz, Louis. The rôle of the practicing dermatologist in our war effort, 347.
Severac, Marie (see Beerman and Severac), 269.
Shaffer, Bertram (see Pillsbury, Shaffer and Nichols), 371.
Sharlit, Herman. The production and measurement of colloid clouds in alcoholic solutions of blood serum lipids, 389.

- Shilkret, Harry H. Electrophoretic skin studies. I. Reaction to common grasses, 11.

- Silver, Henry (see Chiego and Silver), 95.
Smith, Carl C., Goldman, Leon, and Fox, Harry H. Lecithin feeding in the syndrome of psoriasis. II. Chemical studies of the relationship of lecithin feeding to fat metabolism, 321.
Strakosch, Ernest A. The rôle of bases in ointments used for protection against sunlight, 1.
Sulzberger, Marion B. Dermatology and syphilology in the Navy, 381.

T

- Talbott, John H. (see Lever and Talbott), 303.
Thompson, K. W. (see Dimond and Thompson), 397.
Thompson, Kenneth W. The skin-reacting antigen of Trichophyton purpureum, 375.

U

- Urbach, Erich, and Gouley, Benjamin A. A new form of localized lipoidosis: granuloma cholesterinicum subcutaneum, 331.

W

- Wile, U. J., and Schamberg, Ira L. Pulmonary fat embolism following infusions via the bone marrow, 173.
Wise, Fred. Presidential address: Purpura annularis telangiectodes (Majocchi) and progressive pigmentary dermatosis (Schamberg). Clinical and histopathological features, differential diagnosis, 153.